

To FCC:

I strongly oppose the FCC's action to the weakening of Indiana's TELEPHONE PRIVACY law. It has been a welcome relief from the annoying interruptions that solicitors made prior to its enactment.

We like the peace and quiet of uninterrupted meals as a family. Since most of the calls were generated by computerized database marketers, weakening this law to allow such actions to become viable again affects my privacy and quality of life.